DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

1. Claims 67-76 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Prutchi et al (US Patent No 6,473,648). Prutchi discloses all of the claimed limitations including a bipolar or unipolar electrode arrangement for impedance measurements where the bipolar or unipolar electrodes are implanted in any configuration, including the configurations of the claimed invention.

In the alternative, Claims 67-76 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Prutchi. Prutchi discloses all of the claimed limitations but does not explicitly speak to particular unipolar or bipolar configurations. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the impedance measuring implantable medical device of Prutchi to include particular unipolar or bipolar configurations since it was well known in the art that impedance measurement systems for lead integrity and capture threshold determinations vary the electrode configurations and use particular unipolar and bipolar configurations over which the impedance measurement is made, to provide indications of that particular lead's integrity or that particular chamber's capture threshold.

Conclusion

2. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US Patent 6,405,087 to Snell, which discloses an impedance measuring circuit connected to a switch bank for selecting electrodes and leads in a multichamber arrangement.
